Re-establishing the Broken Familial Link Between Black Afrikan Caribbean Peoples and Black Afrikan Americans
By Keven Reynolds (Edited)

The cultural divide between Black people from the and assumptions. We therefore, must embrace the Caribbean and the United States is a complex and richness of our multifaceted experiences. In doing so, we multifaceted issue, rooted in historical, social, and can construct a stronger, more inclusive Black diasporic geographical differences. While sharing a common community. One that celebrates our diversity while African diasporic heritage, our distinct experiences, affirming our shared humanity." Some possible ways to traditions, and worldviews have shaped unique institute interchange and mastery:- cultural festivals and identities. However, due to this, in the 21st century, events showcasing Caribbean themed and American it is imperative that we bridge this cultural gap and legacies via our own television, magazines and social foster meaningful exchange, by acknowledging, media groups facilitating dialogue and crucial .

respecting and accepting each other's collective knowledge. We can also distribute collaborative significant divergence. While actively recreating inventive expressions, our many gifts of creativity, ancestral opportunities for mutual understanding, spiritually centred initiatives, cultural transfer about learning, and growth due to our proven shared DNA, Afrikan appreciation. With Caribbean and African as cousins. Through cultural events, educational American traditions, high-value special programs, initiatives, and digital platforms, can then facilitate workshops highlighting our shared history and dialogue and collaboration. By sharing our stories, cultural legacies - supporting broad-based genius. traditions, and struggles, build bridges of empathy With our inclinations for shaping widespread leading and solidarity. Ultimately, forging ties requires a roles in inspiring artistic projects, such as music, willingness to listen, attain, trust and adapt. This literature, and visual arts. With community-based demands we confront our unfounded, learned biases energy promoting cultural exchanges for the young.

The Perpetual Slave Mind

A present danger to themselves and specifically to the Afrikan Konscious, with the tenacity to upkeep the slavery status quo at the deepest cost to every Black person on the island. Since they see themselves as the better, preferred serf minds. These unmoored, aimlessly drifting individuals carry a hardcore belief that the eleven-plus slave test coupled with a stagnating rote learning contract created sometime in the late 1950s, but not by anyone of Afrikan descent. The newest way, back themselves. In definition, three lifetimes of ancestral re-education, and mind reset is long overdue for every Black adult, including all children, to arrest decades of cerebral decay, in order to reverse four generations of misinformation damage, otherwise, will remain lost in limbo, highly dysfunctional, in a world on the move. The burden of responsibility is on wise Afrikan people to change this projection. The social class test is proven to render Black Afrikan ancestral ingenuity and all spiritual intuitiveness in 11-then to mislead came into being when Black people remained in the terrible grip of rigid emancipation, and believe in 2025, it is their educational savior, giving them some prestige. With too many older schools reprehensibly, and proudly, still bearing demoralizing slave master names from centuries past that belong in museums as references only, giving us a clearer insight into the minds of our European ancestors. But the parliament refuses to eradicate this generational crime against Black children; most people stoutly defend and weakly justify political atrocities against year-olds permanently dormant, leaving the most vulnerable in the majority community at the very bottom of the civil hierarchy. The structure of miseducation should have evolved at least 40 years ago, but is still in stasis. The ones who consider themselves the cream of high society, based on which slave school attended, perceive themselves as better than the average Black person, are blithering dimmed wits, only good at regurgitating the mindless, worthless politicians' talking machine drivel as automatons in the so-called middle class.

The Perpetual Slave Mind

The political management now preside over the putrefying corpse of a dead system by extending it to self-enrich, or aspire for a government job, free money, with many doing very little or no work, based entirely on party affiliation, an army of occupation. One need look no further than the unproductive cabinet voluntarily and mysteriously ensconced in a 1700s-1960s time perversion, for this determination. Although claiming a supreme dilemma separate from the majority, whose votes propelled them into the parliament after lacing bad intent with mountains of unchecked falsehoods, and possess churned out paper from numerous degree mills in the West, glaringly lacking the superior recognition, indigenous Afrikan brainpower, and high level commonsense passed down from the ancients.

A distinct weakness of colonial, man-made politicians. Entirely useless in a space needing Afrikan blood-born masterminds with exceptionally gifted brilliance, and the clarity to rationally puncture and break down barriers of hallucinations encircling the blind, and instead engaging cluttered minds enthralled by criminal evil. We established Barbados had in the last 20 years, rare available access to networks within the Afrikan Union setting, to redesign a more updated education system for Afrikan children on the island, inclusive of and catering to all ancestral needs, Especially with Comess sitting in the AU for that timespan, but obviously that was never the plan. A recent World Bank report expounded on the neglected state of the education system, in the last two decades, that created disadvantage for every child from primary school upward. Every action taken in Afrika by local politicians and their minion was at the person level, and had nothing to do with any benefit to the majority population as they can produce nothing achieved during their Afrika tour.

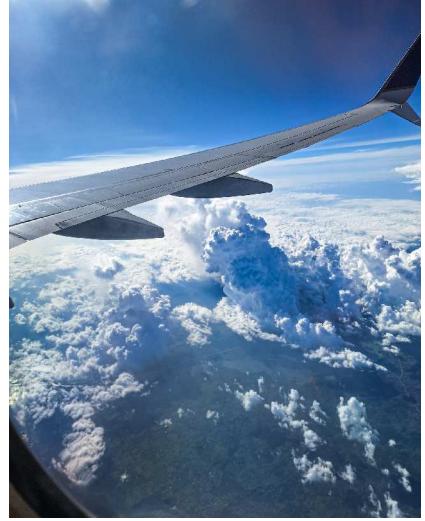

There is not one Afrikan President who would deny the information needed, since I personally heard two of them make a public request five years ago, had that been the intent. Barbados is one of the very few islets where the people reside within a framework of total disconnect from all things related to our Afrikan venerables, and kept that way by dangerous politicians, whose only objective is about self. Then made the maliciously destructive decision to keep the people decoupled from Afrika; only caring about what they can gain in the extended exercise in treachery. Otherwise, why would they be there, as part of the AU furniture.

The higher level intellectuals and creatives are unassuming, unknown, shy away from the glare of publicity and all things political. Since they paid to learn they will become the targets of the lesser, mentally sub-educated, who have no unification with Ntchr. Frighteningly, there is one black skin "backra johnny," straight-ish hair (did not know that hideous species existed until he recently showed up in person) carrying a white mind, foolishly pretending scholarship, on paper only, but not in reality. Who spills utter idiocy in his hysterics to see Black Afrikan people on the island re-enslaved; and with his little boy sidekick attached, arguing it is all biblical, but too embarrassed to show his religious slave face these days. They also claim an educational eminence that simply does not exist, and makes no difference to the parliament's dysfunctional outputs, as a now very public, unrecoverable shipwreck; it is obvious, they are all incapable of rising above the prepared lower loop to any monumental reasoning or excellence, which is not just a word to throw around. Only the most barren of minds would believe their masters devised education to free their subjectively captured, demobilized state.

We are not only primary, but ancestral to every group inhabiting our earth. Who only recently arrived. Therefore we cannot reduce ourselves as equal to anyone, they will have to rise as our equals. Since we are and will remain principal to everyone, as the earth's original Black Afrikan people, according to the forces of Ntr - Empress Wuraola Oya

Politicians are entirely incapable of creating anything that would advance, or enhance the people or island, and when not begging, must depend on someone else in the way of paying out tens of millions of tax dollars for foreign consultants to work out uncomplicated things, Caricom Community, university students, properly trained, can accomplish. The degreed ones presenting as intellectuals, except for one or two who display carefully measured progenitor's wisdom, and tied to the local university, have no choice but to sing from politician's hymn sheets if they want gainful employment, rendering them effectively emasculated. With only the competence to orate from a preapproved script, as censored mouthpieces. Although sucking on the taxpayer's purse for upward of 40 years. They do not work in the best interest of the public and contribute absolutely nothing sincerely edifying, except for ineffectual talk, while awaiting a pension date, as wasted lives. However, the clown show kept chasing around everywhere under guise, working on like-minded Afrikans in the AU, who are now described in recent videos as fundamentally weak, to find themselves psychologically overpowered by bajan politicians, colonizers wannabe, completely disconnected from any ancient source, and do not even speak an Afrikan language. Then failed to properly investigate the bajan talkers before engaging.

Who then rightly assumed, said Afrikans will never figure out the intricate setup for Afrika, until too late, once mesmerized by a galloping phony western celebrity. While everyone neglected to focus on the localized, uncivilized impairment they cause within Black communities. A betrayal of horrifying magnitude.

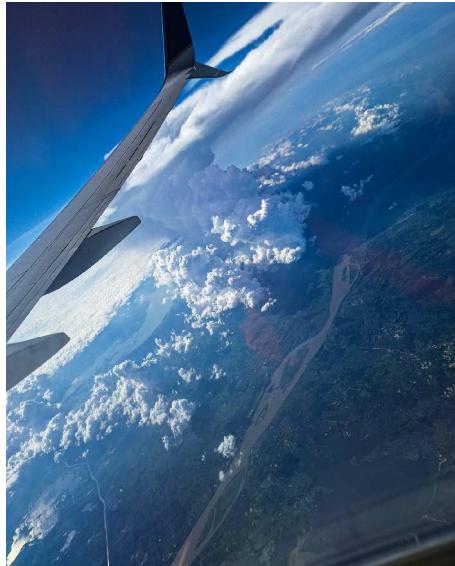

Lack of Identity

The people as a collective, do not know who gave them certain identities, and most are yet to find their Afrikan lineage and heritage. According to public information, the island was renamed by the Portuguese, from the ancient Ichirouganaim to Barbados "the bearded ones." (Thank you, Miller). Then kidnapped Afrikans, including those who were already in the region (island) for numerous millennia, were mislabeled "Bajans." A term never used by sophisticated, well informed, self-respecting Afrikans to depict themselves. They have no clue where the label originated or anything about what it means, so its use is entirely voluntary, lacking character and dignity. Since all these islands had indigenous names with Black Afrikans, and other natives, living on them for many thousands of years prior to our European ancestors claiming they discovered anything. So newer names like "Bajan" do not apply to us, or take precedence over the first people who inhabited. But maybe only to the descendants of assimilated white slave catchers, rounded up and dropped off on the island by Europe not so long ago, or those accepting reclassification by total strangers. Similar to the Black Belly sheep they raised and a top dish for centuries, but never knew its origin until the last three or four years, clinging stubbornly to a questionable misconception and fantasy. When our real identity actually exists, much, not all of it, is found across the internet these days, but ignored in favor of the Land of Pretense, because politicians of the lowest stature only seek world attention, access to interfering in other country's affairs by spreading tentacles of cunning, undermining, sabotage, and conniving, like they allegedly did on the Afrikan continent. While in pursuit of the ability to run a game on everyone, and present as genuine impersonators, preening, false orators, but do not want the Black majority educated at any level that would manifest self-awareness. This tells us everything we need to know, as they project their universally unlettered, very limited, untethered, dictators/slave masters' wannabe personas, and have nothing useful to offer.

Politics

The backward politics created by foreign governors, and island overseers from the 1600s, specifically to indoctrinate feeble minds when the physical shackles were finally broken, and constrain them into never ending arguments, and false expertise instead, not unlike colonial religions. While global constitutions became riddled with recitations of untruths about our ancient history and physiology, then changed in the last 250 years, on paper, to those of animals. These cerebrums are undeterred, even when pointed out by those who have done extensive research on the topic. They would then use every rationalization in their restricted space, including attacking the fellow targeted, about something inane, but critically important as Afrikan hairstyles, just to redirect and cast blame away from politicians. The generationally misled young people from intentionally deprived neighborhoods, who lack proper educational tools are eventually railroaded into the prison system, allegedly for the purposes of slave labor. After their misguided journey through a doomed educational matrix, and the second economy. The self-appointed judges do not know that "deportment" starts in the brain via accumulated ancestral knowledge, so, do not see themselves as equally mentally dishevelled and deluded, as the youth they deride. While claiming "conservatism" as an excuse, a white-world word somehow always used in the wrong context on the island. Since the real meaning eludes them, as their psyche is preset to conform and never resist. Yet, when the week of February 16, 2025 arrived, local media highlighted that the "Most Honorable Dr. Anthony "Gabby" Carter," Barbados' Cultural Ambassador" was arrested for the alleged sexual misconduct on a "mentally incapacitated" teenager. The second such accusation of assault made against a government approved individual in as many years; the last arrest was of a sitting Member of Parliament. Just days after the Anthony Carter episode, a sitting MP was allegedly "assisting" the police in another accusation, this time regarding a boy child. The behavior is alleged as a known cultural norm on the island for many decades, and before this, came without any consequences to accused. However, the supporters all immediately went silent, closed ranks, no comment, consumed by their hypocritical biases where those with colonial titles, sucking on taxpayers, are deemed somebody deserving of protection. Everyone else, except minorities, are castigated for any infringements and scandalized on the island, to satisfy a mind disease.

Every new palabra coming out of countries, they claim are their oppressors, is swiftly embraced and treated like holy grail. Hence the never ending mismatch between terminology, and translation. This is the right time to take PLT's advice and adopt a less self-defeatist, blame game approach. Despite the parliament housing only one member with locks, all others are so called "groomed," bald heads, chemical/fake hair, all unnatural, and alleged as dangerously, irredeemably corrupt to their inner nuclei. A fact gleefully overlooked by those who look up to, admire, glorify and enable deceivers and the licentious. Then continue the encouragement, by diverting the "corrupt" label to the innocent.

Any excuse is used to adhere to a mythical, indoctrinated style, to keep the very bane of the people's imploding, swiftly deteriorating existence alive, too inert to drive change, not even in the midst of a cataclysmic event, will they act to protect themselves or each other. There is the inexplicable wishful thinking that the metastasized cancer of political humiliation is still a saving grace and will eventually free them from the deliberate eternal pauperization, socio-economic upheavals, and terminal dependence, created and kept in place by the same politicians they worship. Even though it never has, and history strongly indicates, never will, since they obtusely go around in circles in an unbroken cycle. Despite the ideologies of debasement that did not liberate our most recent antecedents, who went to their graves not knowing our true identities, or any of our real Afrikan stories, the same condition in which they arrived. The wandering, indisciplined anti-Afrikan instinct still holds stringently to its impending demise by unwavering reflex. A mind cleanse for all is a high priority, and gravely momentous. A full exorcism for the parliament and all politicians/lawyers, is critical.

Religion

The destructive manifold of religions took dominance through thousands of wars and hundreds of millions of global deaths over multitudinous lifetimes. However, in this epoch, created to destroy the legitimate spiritual essence of the Afrikan, replacing it with an empty vessel fueled by meaningless, powerless alien words, successfully rendering those so afflicted, tone deaf, and unable to hear the drums of freedom. This inferior frequency dominates the defective intellect, as a personal choice, who find it difficult to shed their state of ancestral disconnect, refuse to find links to liberation of the mind, clinging steadfastly to what renders them powerless, and best described as a paralyzed condition. Even though they were all recently humiliated during the Palestinian situation, when for decades misinterpreting the overly revised bible. With credible information existing that all versions were tampered with for hundreds of years, to suit varying royal agendas. Many times by our Black Afrikan European Kings and Queens, other times by our White European Kings and Queens. As that is not bad enough, they still try to ensnare others into a mentally "crippled" sense of being by bullying, and get angry when told to get lost with their learned demeanors from the wretched of the earth.

the earth politicians, sinning slave churches, and their tacky fraud gimmicks, from where there is no escape or advancement to the authentically spiritual for anyone, unless banished. These dispositions, however, want to hear nothing about Black Afrikan ancestors or the powers bequeathed to them. Any descendants displaying such natural abilities are treated as outsiders. To get a better overview of this systematic decline, and the end result, a Youtube video titled "The Man Who Started the Rastafarian Faith Leonard P. Howell/JBNN," gives the whole backstory of black governments and their petrifying roles. First as the failed West Indies Federation, then as the equivalently disastrous Caricom. When complicit in the Black Afrikan's thorough social annihilation. The same criminal modus operandi was deployed across the region, but none more horrifying than what took place in Jamaica and Ayiti, as inherent compos mentis retained the closest links of strength to the Afrikan continent, marking that indomitable spirit to be crushed. A disgrace of epic proportions, as the tiny contrived world where those who follow politicians wade is seen as the only place to reside safely in abject abnormality. After two decades of flying under the radar at the African Union, the bajan culprits grew over-confident they had succeeded in hoodwinking Afrika with a stolen Jamaican story, while ignoring the original owners. The AU's time would have been much better spent fixing the thousands of considerable deep-seated problems within their zones, but some chose to collude with and listen to the Liars of Barbados, in their elaborate scheme, using Pinnacles of fashionable BS. These are western politicians who, just like Afrikan politicians are well aware that none of them will, or should, get a dime let alone trillions of dollars off our ancestor's kidnappings, to show off themselves while leaving us stranded. With very few in Afrika, offering to do right by us, others are still warming up, so the only debt owed to them, who care nothing about descendants, are some shackles and chains in payment for known slaver leanings, in memoriam to our genealogy. I therefore suggest they cease these provocations, with their Caricom compadres, and make way for those who have the know-how to reap success. Since Black America's claim, that of the Caribbean, and Afrika's has nothing to do with each other, all differ. As Afrika played a central and pivotal role in forebears' removal, and our ongoing imprisonment, for which Caricom is the odious jailer, within this bajan/AU hoax.

Islands off Latin America

All of which is shaping up, and looking increasingly like politicians from both continents who allegedly dabble in the abominable, including burying, in Ghana, soil taken from Newton Slave Burial site in Barbados. So when in too close proximity, did either side use simmy, dimmy to cast spells on each other? - to arrive at this point after two decades, because both are cut from the same fabric of disgust, and found oneness in Karma for revolting actions taken against Afrikans sequestered in the West.

The week of February 13, 2025 saw the AU vowing a more Afrikan-centered approach to seeking reparatory justice. While a Reuters article suggests Caricom has "its own plan." Separate from AU's? One must ask, to stay abreast. Everyone who heard the announcement is taking a wait and see attitude. Hopefully, they finally jettisoned the infiltrating scamps from small islands, who were warned repeatedly they were handling everything associated with the above subject matter badly. Additionally, Afrika should never adopt any "reconciliation," with imperialist countries, code word for never becoming free. A recipe for remaining eternally confined within the parameters of colonizers, invaders and occupier's complicated designs.

Malkia Wa Walfalme

The Rastafarian and Konscious designation, in this area, rightfully belongs to Jamaicans, with some input from Black Trinidadians; and not to bajan politicians or any retarded, lower class, cursed bajan white, they paid, then tried to crown with even more fanciful concoctions, after his death.

Once these social ills and political contagions continue to make money for the hoggish, they will never be excised from the society. To remedy this toxic hazard to the region, every cheapened colonial template, now in the hands of black politicians, and minorities, that attracts the local dangerously corrupt and drives obscene ambitions; then like magnets entices criminal maggots from every corner of the globe to penetrate, then generate further turmoil and alleged thefts, must now face perpetual removal from our domain. Amen Ra Counterfeit Royalty Coming from the Parliament?

Finally, the recent visuals by the parliament sending subliminal messaging onstage while masquerading in domestic, semi-cultural Afrikan attire for the last five years. The costume prompted comments from some, about a ridiculous looking five-yard-long piece of cloth thrown over a colonial shoulder. A replication of the ancestral styles of Kwame Nkrumah and other real Pan Afrikans, whose shoes they cannot even dream of filling. The one-person-parade never seen before on the island coming from any politician in the last 59 years, who previously, perversely looked down on Afrikan attire with great disdain, is still unexplained.

The majority population were socialized, by the same colonial minded politicians, to ridicule Afrikan wear and head dress, very few had the courage to consistently wear their heritage without facing smirks and laughter. I too was attacked and called a "back to Afrika idiot," on the obscure BU blog. The patented, ignorant anonymous will have to find their way out of that self-imposed wilderness, since no one has the time to spoonfeed the arrogant. They had their chance and blew it magnificently. Only aspiring to become willfully clueless politician's pets, always in loser mode, always championing unsound agendas that have no legs.

The faceless Blog has finally been exposed and classified as one of the main sources and cauldron of disinformation in Barbados, cheerfully misleading the people for nearly two decades. Blog Admin stubbornly refused to believe what they are doing is a disservice to the populi, unhelpful, not conducive to Afrikan re-education, and re-activation for those heavily indoctrinated by political lies. In addition, they embarked on a malicious campaign to discredit anyone who pointed out their foray into pipedreams. Those self-sabotaging actions have assuredly caught up, as was bound to someday, and leave them swimming against the tide, as the gatekeepers, no matter how macabre the criminal acts perpetrated against us and themselves.

However, we are awaiting a public notice of some bogus royalty, with matching bloodline coming from performers. It is indeed stomach bubbling to watch the bluffing on exhibition, with no ability to provide any verification, years after the matinee started, unless someone dies first? Where is the genetic test tracing proof of royalty? While retribution and the reckoning hovers, with Karma chasing. Incredibly, not one of them have an ancestral blueprint or roadmap needed to lead the path going forward, despite all the yapping. Amen Ra
