Radiating Expired Evil
By Empress Wuarola Oya

When pure evil radiates from certain people and unseen by most who love listening to false chatter intended to bamboozle slow minds and light heads, they can operate undiscovered throughout dusty lives. A societal, generational stain not easily removable once its roots have spread since the 17th century, it was during that age some of the enslaved became slavers, as was fashionable. and at the very end of their lives, willed the oppressed, helpless and exploited to other favorite slaves, in a linked continuation of the enslavement story distributed socially, undiluted.

This took place after the branding as slave masters from both sides of the ancestor's divide, western and Afrika, the reinforced command over human capital was then deployed. That is what happened in Barbados. A deathbed crime to ensure the baseness continues uninterrupted, passed on from rotten spawn to spawn and deeply infused in the DNA: an unbroken chain that some find appealing and exceedingly hard to let go, still insist on using the same schematics to make a name and accumulate wealth off new age human misery.

Radiating Expired Evil

Many of us can claim slave master lineage from the lowest to the highest reaches of 1700s -1900s time frames, and before that, across continents, but not many retain and carry the immoral and criminal stench wearing it as a deodorant, a raging all-consuming need, an inexplicable urge within infected cells of wishing for the re-enslavement of Black Afrikans as an advantage for self and our historical enemies economically in this 21st century. When much better can be done, but yet doing everything within their limited box to realize a fantasy of sacrificing others on a much grander scale.

Especially as an aged black woman with absolutely no justification, now within the closing nightfall of existing and not many more years left to spend in the game, but already becoming insignificant as a useful instrument for the betterment of other groups, with an approaching expiration date. This is beyond unnatural to be thus driven, striving to revive and leave such a ruinous heritage behind once again, just to enjoy a few more comfortable years at the expense of Afrikans. Instead of making peace with earlier monstrous perpetrations of which there are too many to count, and where shortened time in this dispensation would be better spent, but is already too late.

Berlin Conference 1884 2.0 - Did Barbados Show Agreement or Stayed Silent in Consent?

After watching populations on both continents get coerced into a sense of false security with brazen malice and magnetizing antics, we all have to come to grips with outcomes, and exercise ever more vigilance. While accepting you were fooled and played by the politician's noise making, ruses, unproductive verbiage, the dazzling road show. The experience should prompt those with the capacity to think freely but were duped, to visualize the requisite changes within yourself first, in atonement for believing a latticework of mental entanglement, as presented. Without more political help to remain entrenched in slave mindedness, to further warp an already uncertain future.

The smirking orating heads persuaded themselves they are the ones shaping everyone's lives into a Berlin conference 2.0 replay, tickled that so many people fell for the act; and no one would notice their handiwork, most did not, too many have no clue what that means. This is the extent of a knowledge base for those people who do not stay abreast of history, and are doomed to repeat it; they are fervently dream-walking into the unknown and do not know, no one can help them though, they have to aid themselves this time around, they are on their own.

While all of that was happening, we noticed a sudden shift in norms and correctly surmised that white collars who had fine tuned certain highly skilled robbery techniques to an art form over generations were suddenly all falling in line. After seemingly sold on grand aspirations of better honing and plying their trade on the continent with no barriers or restrictions in the way; since everyone was actively pursuing the much sought after passports of immunity from prosecution; which we understand is reportedly sold for tens of thousands of dollars, and other people who have no ancestral ties to this region or Afrika can also purchase. We know how opportunities can be sewn up tight so no one else can get close to the cabal's periphery, ensuring they are the only beneficiaries, it is a trademark. This was already tested, tried and true, now comes the dry run.

It is clear brigades of varying teams were already recruited to take the continent by storm, once they show loyalty to the puppet master in black face. Afrika has to put measures in place to stop this well planned invasion and add-on, all of it a guise to despicably make sure we have no way, or say, to access our rights as African ascendants when they are done grabbing at everything and sealing off all routes, with compelling greed. While asserting, inserting never seen before conducts, habits, codes, actions, functions, a wide array of disturbing influences, not aligned with standard ancestral cultural behaviors, and spreading thousands of red cult spies all around chosen countries to scrutinize the Afrikan population. In the last week of observing the riveting fallout from hiding Barbados' sordid past history that mirrors present-day idiosyncrasies, from the AU Presidents for an indeterminate period, all indicators are pointing to the fact, the continent was never to find out until too late, or ever, meaning a well structured conspiracy.

However, after realizing to their horror that within the last four or five years, Afrikan countries were resolutely legislating to preserve the natural conventional family unit, outright ban public lesbianism and homosexuality with heavy fines and imprisonment. The planners knew they had to act swiftly, making absolutely sure the knowledge remained concealed from the AU. Therefore, we can now identify the reason for the stifling weight of persecuting everyone on the island into secrecy within the last three-four years.

Berlin Conference 1884 2.0 - Did Barbados Show Agreement or Stayed Silent in Consent?

The uptick in tyranny, the weaponizing of silence with legislation so people are too afraid to speak out: in the extremist's attempt to protect the operation, but there was a fatal miscalculation, a calamitous flaw. We should not have to face such challenges on the backdrop of our ancestor's horrid multi-century journey, experience, and what we too have endured for far longer than necessary at the hands of politicians manufactured by the west. This has now become their unraveling just to hide a parliament's abnormal personal practices that has always spilled into the public domain, as their normal, embroidered with disrespectful revulsion. They were more afraid of that reveal, than they are of the most famous criminal patterns attributed to them for which they still have defenses.

One would think Afrika is in tune with such machinations coming from anyone, immediately recognizing the signatures as the recurring main focus of crimes against Black humanity, a target: and on the lookout for more of the same or worse, even from those who look like us, given how many millennia of times traitors were churned out over life cycles and still incoming: so what would make them think this region has none that are dodgier, more feral, as per the demographics, while imbued into the power structure of things, this is perplexing. Instead they allowed themselves to drift straight into another premeditated, better modified, well staged performance, although mindful there are any number of "useful idiots," to make good use of still, it never stopped in Afrika, the willing also exist here at other levels and magnitudes, no matter how much they claim they are educated, bray about being intelligent, but yet always one dollar away from selling out. .

Berlin Conference 1884 2.0 - Did Barbados Show Agreement or Stayed Silent in Consent?

These Presidents cannot say they did not know this was inevitable, but volunteered anyway to participate in the upcoming further dessimating of entire populations without applying caution, by getting along with the wicked in an elaborate campaign where they were entirely left out of the main script. We hope the danger was at least sensed. None can use the excuse they were ambushed, not when so many articles were written about well known swindling hustlers on the move, repeatedly hosted in Afrika, and becoming a distinct threat.

Writings that were easily dismissed because they were direct and devoid of sugar-coated western glitter, glamor, playacting, false religion and the flowery laced malignancy of politics, or sprinkled with generous amounts of deceptiveness, all weapons easily trained on Afrika and still work to perfection with precision. So what now? We can ask, when will they learn? What next must happen to bring a sense of reality to the circumstances? This was undeniably a hair's breadth away, a narrow escape from the disastrous, but there is still damage left behind, knowing the track records of the forces with high crimes and misdemeanors who were unwittingly welcomed.

With all the palaver disgorged at people in the Caribbean and on the continent for eight years, we thought Caricom blabbers would issue a blanket statement, hold a cross continent press conference this month, directly alerting everyone of any incoming menace and properly, publicly prepare their followers who believed the previous rhetoric of peril, but never identifying the source. Apparently that will not be forthcoming. We did not expect them to tell Afrika they are also an architect of what is unfolding, while organizing multiple other setups. In one of a series of shady youtube videos when extrapolating on "what is coming" without any details where the devil is always found, posted prior when the multi-role playing as a prophet was still in vogue, but handily omitted any involvement or engineering input of the bajan pretender pan african. Karma dictates they should have to confess to the world the part they play in all of it, not sneakily and conveniently hiding behind EU bosses when things get real, but should man up and come out with explanations.

Berlin Conference 1884 2.0 - Did Barbados Show Agreement or Stayed Silent in Consent?

Tell everyone, was there any consensus in the EU parliament recently to re-enslave Afrika and known through whatever existing close personal relationships in place, did Barbados give a private, complying nod, or stayed silent in consent? Did they ever stop to think how this would heavily impact the Caribbean region by extension? We cannot in good conscience say this is unexpected, the surprise would only register if it never happened, and validates my total objection to paying reparations to Caricom colonial politicians no matter who they are or impersonate, and reject them as our representative in Afrika, in totality.

Particularly Barbados who is entirely out of place, and should never have been allowed in that conversation. Again, conflicts of interest are never a consideration, always dismissed to promote egomania, and the preservation of grandiosity. Too many Afrikan lives were already wasted and lost, so the puerile can fabricate self importance, dominance and the farcical, none of which ever added up or amounted to anything but what we are witnessing right now, galloping disgrace that has significantly intensified and is currently, turbulently out of control, effectively tarnishing the island's reputation in blemishes.

Japan City

The perception we would be subjected to more of the same or worse, given the delusions of grandeur which recently fell flat, we cannot abide by that, especially when they easily pivoted to an equally devastating plan B. Where the colonial system is once again abused to the point of no recourse, as usual, and Afrika taking decades, if ever, to understand the logistics, the mechanics and dynamics of such maneuvers. We do not have to accept domineering, unwanted personalities who do not mean us well historically, refuse to get out of our lives and see us only as their bread and butter to pass on to the next group of predatory politicians, after they have had their fill: but not one of them can produce any evidence of advancing Black Afrikan population's lives beyond the mediocre since 1952. While employing craftiness to use our ancestral claims to keep us in line, a learned behavior, as copycats, deserving of massive resistance and more exposure; pinpointing all shadow moves to place who will do their bidding on our ancestral lands. Not in this space will these plots succeed and must never find any willing Afrikan hosts again for ploys against us and themselves. However, if any Afrikan country colludes with Carib-cretins against us, we will be sure to let the whole world know, this is not the 1300s-1800s or before. We will fight back in the most brutal forms.
