A Breath of Fresh Air - A Shift in the Paradigm
By Empress Wuarola Oya

A new space in which to think of unique beginnings without the allotted baggage, a weight lifted. The additional dangers were surgically removed with precision and at last characterized as harmless. We never owned them; those of us who saw through the deceptions, though they represented disaster, chaos, disarray that encircled everyone by depiction. Taking full control of and embrace one's multi-heritage destiny has surfaced, a chance to realize and manifest free from the strictures of dying societies, a time to heal. We have to know when worlds are moving in alignment where we can view what lays ahead, with our connectivity totally intact and unencumbered. A clear path with no mental barriers of interference to subvert the dynamics. A well defined power driven frontier for the ancestral educated to break down the barriers of dependency that seeks to impede flexibility.

You Can Free Yourself - Ziggy Marley

An innovative sense of clarity and originality is fully established and ours for the taking. Listen to your inner self, your most competent, efficient advisor and leader, the first healer. We are responsible for shutting out all the other noise that has taken center stage in the physical area for far too long, became rooted in the weakest minds, overstayed and has finally run out of steam, a well deserved breakdown. There is no longer an alluring, tentacle-like hold of unwanted distractions, the uninvited grip was unceremoniously ripped away. Hope can now materialize into certainty.

A reason and season to share valuable information. A sense of pride in relaying to the young the serious roles as owners of their real fate moving forward toward safer ground, knowing who they are with reintroduction to classical origins. No organism, old or unripe, can re-enter unless allowed, which is counterproductive to a victory long withheld, one that can now be reclaimed, taken with both hands and beat back any carriers of negative influences aiming to pollute a clean avenue to the future. An enduring passage is available and devoid of all scorned obstacles, recently banished from all our lives. Our honor is fully restored.

Multiple Blood Heritage Is A Blessing In Disguise

The world has emerged as a village, intertwined and intermingling throughout zones of being, where our contributions still remain indelibly valuable to our earth. We find ourselves as a hybrid of all groups, but predominantly, authentically, primarily Afrikan ancestrally and centrally. With the greatness made whole from all spheres to rebuild, reinvent, reimagine within the perimeters of the cosmos. All turbulence is swept away once we reject the low vibration outputs determined to rule our sanctity and taint it with the stench of corruption. Healthy exchanges are urgent and a requirement. What once hung as a dense hovering cloud, has dissipated, leaving only translucence in its wake. Our powerful strength is regenerated and does not rely on outdated ultra weakened scripts. We are not beholden to the garden variety type decreased energies. isolated from unification, a burden to any progress and development, an alien concept to our well known capable, proactive synergies.

Our young people deserve much better than a factory of debacles and violence. Visited by chambers of death as a steady daily diet with no relief, only grief. A clean slate, a rapid move away from despair is a final solution. However, non-functioning elements, although paid, do not have one answer to proffer, only dismal performances, and limited abilities at levels outside now deconstructed domains of comfort, but insist on pulling everyone into their approaching demise. The people are in a better position to represent their own interests since no one ever has in over six decades and never will, as it all comes to a terrible climax. We cannot leave any feeble governance structures in place for our future to confront.

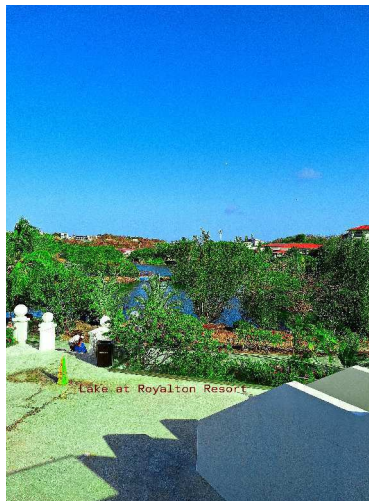

A strict selection process for those still interested in picking the colonial nominated as a servant has to be employed and demanded. Preferably without all the toxic titles that prevent applicants from working for the populace, spawns psychosis, and the need to dominate, refusal to move on, using every trick to survive and implement the same worn out predicaments. Along with the ever present overuse of me-ism. Although now inhabiting a place they are no longer welcome, and did not earn fairly, but are convinced further bullying will be tolerated, can win and get the job done.

Multiple Blood Heritage Is A Blessing In Disguise

If there is no choice but to have administrative staff working within parliament precincts going forward to commission a semblance of organization where none exists; the dog and pony show should be eliminated and recommendations impressed on candidates, it is a temporary arrangement, a job tied to performance. They are not bosses, masters or rulers and are unqualified to lead in the current undereducated format. Once instances of mediocrity are detected, as what now obtains, they are out, fired for nonperformance. Legislative powers to recall derelict should become a permanent fixture as suggested over the decades.

Crumbling redundant proclivities based on 1920s, 1950s and 1970s associations are cause for an instant disqualification. Nostalgia for the ridiculous based on an eleven plus test, banned by the UK ten years after implementation because of educational deficits, and enduring shortcomings, has taken its toll. We see the deficiencies, the society is feeling and reeling from every negative effect. A turn around is inevitable, handled by the people, a firm no to following the hapless down a self-created cliff dive is essential. We have a right to vocalize and reject the over-confident and their latest tumble that does nothing to alleviate the directionless course to anything meaningful and will not enhance the lives of the population. The lack of innovation has led to copycats finally finding themselves trapped in a cul-de-sac they constructed, and have run out of road..

Deploying Ancestral Strength - Raise Our Frequency To Its Most Vertical Extent

We need no permissions to utilize our protective forces against a discredited threat that paints itself as a hazard to viability. Within that light, protection of families against all perceived menace must take priority. Sitting and waiting as is the norm to "see what happens" is no longer an option, it is worse than laziness and will lead to unrectifiable consequences. Trinidad just learned the hard way what vulnerability causes when frameworks are eroded, compromised, security neglected from within, and becomes too feeble, then death and disaster awaits. The same applies to populations whose ability to defend as a unit was taken away and handed to the worst possible group of self-indulgent showboaters with no gift of creativity. More misfortune is scheduled to arrive any day now. With no knowledge or discipline to deliver as per job descriptions, that are largely ignored for more pressing issues such as modeling and advertising, a technique used for luring.

Deploying Ancestral Strength - Raise Our Frequency To Its Most Vertical Extent

We have reached a crossroads and the correct direction is within reach, the right choices are available, but a personal journey is merited. Guidance is attainable for those who seek. An opportunity to recalibrate, shed the strains and stains of ruination. There is no excuse to wait on the mentally crippled who have usurped every contingency unnecessarily, infused it with negativity and even that has irreparably malfunctioned. Our advantages lay in redirecting the decadent away from our sacred ancient enclosures, who in a bid to seize elusive energies that in no way concerns them, stumbled and fell. The defeat of the wandering and engrossed was assured. We have taken back our real purpose. The instant plunge into the abyss was inevitable, and our cue to never become captured and mired in talk with nothing attached but unfixable dilemmas, this was underscored. We are the commanders of prospective voyages and need no amateurs to mislead or wreck our unshakeable self esteem with inferior renditions. This applies in Barbados and also across the Black Afrikan world.

Renewed Countenance

There is no valid reason to listen to those so far removed from ancient placings, they have become irrelevant. Too many protracted false promises across administrations and they are done, outwitted themselves. There is nothing new to copy, and must now wait for updated orders from masters in certain quarters to take hold and declare they have full supervision, once a form of stability returns. We were never meant to listen to placeholders, who themselves have no ingenuity, it is a step down, a treadmill to nowhere. There is now a revival of rights, built into our psyche, and individually ready for reactivation for those who chose to adhere to natural concepts. Amun Ra
