Traitors and Double Agents
By Empress Wuarola Oya

While unbeknownst to us over epochs, eventually we came to the startling realization of always being surrounded by traitors and double agents working for one group/country, another, or several simultaneously. With self-hate, the need to social climb, and greed the driving forces, way outside of the people and island's best interest. Populations are now understanding better that is where their votes go, not for voter enhancement, but for the self-absorbed politician to sniff out golden global opportunities, build their stock, false reputation and bank accounts, not once taking into consideration they work for the people who elected them. Whom very few will call out and humiliate for dereliction of duty, giving them the leeway to play a good game and keep it under concealment, but finally unable to continue masking the subterfuge once tracked.

The reason why it lasted so long, most could not see through the fog, or easily detect mendacity. Taxpayer salaries never seemed sufficient in limited minds, no matter how large, as a few of us observed throughout. Colonial titles appeared barren without the pretense of wealth and status, so they had to take more, of course scamming became a way of life. Therefore, islands never progressed beyond the beggar, borrower, and dependent living on loan reserves at every stage of developing, but never developed, and now appears will remain that way into the far flung unforeseeable future, these were all tells.

Populations are then relegated to the backburners so attention junkies can misappropriate other people's holdings, hunt down worldwide acclaim and the networks leading to barbarous acts that could generate millions, in a bid to arrive, While making sure they are the only ones within the alliance of conspirators to acquire prosperity, everyone else is shut out; they must always be on top, squeezing those they assign to the bottom, in a parody as colonizers themselves. All the signs were there, but few paid attention, too caught up in the "we big, we pun de worldstage, we punching above we weight," parrots with silly bragging rights, folly, triggered by political sorcery, leading to major and further damaging island-wide humiliation, now on constant replay, and laid bare in all its gruesomeness:

Watch "Dr. Marsha N. Myrie FINALLY exposes abuse by those in charge - Legal Fraternity - CCB - Barbados

Until a few years ago when publicly peeled back and were supposed to stop the documented violations, the devil parliament still used 1800s laws for wandering slaves against children as young as 12 years old, where there is evidence of massive abuse. None of this must go into another generation of Afrikan descended young people, or cross any borders. This black bajan anti-Afrikan tyranny must never be used again, and certainly not exported to the wider Caribbean or the continent of Afrika, this ends here. The social damage and its aftermath are too great. One track fame-seeking, small mentalities have no moral compass, therefore everyone is fair game once the lust for the shallow remains a burning desire and is not yet assuaged, or burnt to a cinder.

These demonic revelations continue to unfold, while populations are trying to gather scattered thoughts from the decades-long traumas dished out. Presently, the bewildered are wondering why they are at the very interior of embarrassments brought on by the politically treasonous, and given no time to process one scandal before another more devastating than the previous takes its place, like a convoy of hurricanes leaving them staggering. Thereby reducing the island's standing to a zoo-like curiosity. With over 50 years worth of tort still left to unpack and spread around for analysis regarding criminal and civil processes. With Afrika as usual the central focus for exploitation in all areas, and recently finding out what they view as unnatural is normalized in one island since we were very young, and although detrimental to the wellbeing of children, young people and adults, once not confined to private places, is in reality major and varying thefts from the majority to promote a lifestyle not synonymous with or conducive to equality nor psychologically healthy for the entire population.

Nothing has ever been done to eradicate or properly regulate this socially accepted peculiarity, and fighting a concretized status quo with no available weapons, no information, or education back then to make expert decisions, analyze or circumvent the legal frameworks in place for its survival, protection and long term continuation, was a mammoth task. This presented a dilemma, was impossible, and still challenging now as it has become so embedded and part of the local ambience and environment, from top down, soaked and baked into the society. A more radical approach to uproot the source is required, now we know causation, but no one has the will until stronger energies can purge it all out, so that it takes its rightful place in the privacy of adult's bedrooms; and not used as a weapon of mass destruction, a battering ram against the public from childhood, to teenage years and into adulthood. Traitors and Double Agents

These habits are legitimately seen as unacceptable on the continent when flaunted, or imposed on others in some countries. It was therefore unfortunate that despite people from various regional parliaments who know directly or indirectly about the island's multi-generational arrangement, well known across the Caribbean, but may not have said anything. Some spent decades interacting and networking in the AU, it is difficult to envision why it was never mentioned to Afrika about the leadership lifestyle in place, the intense risks to Black Afrikan populations just by each presence.

There is belief a few Afrikan leaders were told, but simply did not care, and overlooked by those grabbing at the world stage for recognition themselves, mesmerized by fraudulent showboating. While everyone else was blindsided with false flags by Barbados instead. Just like this region, Afrika was heavily assaulted by reparations gibberish that is not happening in any lifetime, not for them, they will not receive a dime outside of what was already paid out from UK churches, organizations, and some descendants of slavers, that still ended in scandalous pilfering, as everyone is now aware. Europe and the UK repeatedly said no reparations will be paid to Caribbean agents/employees, because they are quite cognisant that Afrikan descents will not see a cent, since famous reputations of grand theft precedes them.

The Sixth Region Has A Dubious History As A Lure

Then there is the wilful stagnation of the Sixth Region, prompting the movement to die a natural death, or turned into something so flamboyant and gay themed it becomes unrecognizable as any known Afrikan culture, they will then get to smirk at the irony of the latest handiwork, that is the plan. The AU is responsible for getting it out of the wrong hands and completely dissolving the pappyshow. People in the region care nothing about this latest taxpayer funded gay street party to nowhere; are not interested in the dangerous lure, because of who is further befouling the setup with their proximity, name and undoubtedly dousing the entire Afrikan continent in lesbian and homosexual leanings without any permission or oversight. We reject it.

This will cause an odorous whiff of corruption to become permanently attached and permeate the idea of Sixth Region again, as it did the first time around. Where I had registered my company years ago, and all we heard internally was about fraud and missing money, until finally taken down. We know this is what attracted the bajan pretender Afrikan, an opening to slither through. Given the current dirty hands at play here, it is destined to end the same way. We will therefore not tolerate or join in what Afrika is appearing to entertain and enable with Barbados while knowing it means us terrible harm, with no chances of recovery. Our names will not be sullied over another money making ploy or high stakes theft, and used as bait. We have our families to protect, therefore our lives will not be wagered or leveraged and put at risk in Barbados and the AU's newest, worthless political games. We know what 530 years looks like. Let us not forget the climate change echo chamber that left chaos in its wake until that too was wound down and hardly heard about, unless linked to the asinine like being the cause for potholes, everything else under the sun, and other useless mouthings, all distractions, the guise of perpetrators.

Afrika's Knowledge or Lack Thereof

We are left to wonder if everything was thrown at Afrikan presidents except the truth: that the local parliament was always a financial playground and haven for lesbian and homosexual activities and always will, to exercise control with built in colonial haughtiness, a den of corruptors. Afrika was saturated with outright misleading cunning and exceedingly manipulative misdirection, including disguising as a pan african who did not know what that entails, but faked it anyway on the continent. A web weaved so thick it was impenetrable, demonstrating there was something to suppress, until it was too late for reversal. The question is, were some presidents complicit in this ugliness, hell bent on aiding in the fast tracked demise of a continent of Afrikans, while thoroughly immersed in and poisoned by the Muttley Curse.

Whichever way it went, it all backfired, blew up in cruel faces, and stripped down for the local, regional and international arenas to view. The overconfident had gotten so boldface in belief they could dismiss us, and one way or the other take over our continent to spread well known branded social terror freely but secretly: and once gagged by the newest legal toys, cybercrime bill and the computer misuse act, along with added strategies of sabotage, as is the standard operating procedure against us since we knew ourselves. We could only watch from afar, too afraid to say anything for fear of heavy fines, incarceration or worse. Permanently trapped generationally in poverty again for another hundred years, led by a red cult of deplorable criminals, abject failures presenting themselves to the world as wealthy and successful, an act.

With no tools or ability to fight back or extract families from contemporary confinement, but this time the culprits overestimated their low level, narrow abilities. We have evidence of the same intolerable deceiver spirit, on youtube video, in the form of opposition leader in Barbados' parliament 12 years ago, on October 22, 2013 waxing philosophical about "Silence is Consent," but would not hesitate to brutally censor dissenters or those not part of the dumbed down, adoring red cult. That is what got set loose in the Caribbean and on the Afrikan continent, not to preserve, build, or enhance Black Afrikan lives, but to destroy. A legacy of decay, a plague on the earth. I do not know what the AU is thinking, but we know much better than to trust any politician in Barbados' parliament, we are not soft in the head, so Afrikan Presidents should ponder, exactly where does that leave them.

Afrika's Knowledge or Lack Thereof

This is what they do, speak out both sides of their mouths synchronically to confuse populations and young minds, say one thing and do another, a dangerous disgrace:

Barbados Opposition Leader - Mia Mottley: Silence is Consent

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tAAzYbUfHJc>

I was perfectly explicit for the last few years, and forthcoming in articles with alerts against the exportation of objectionable social behaviors and illicit practices into Afrika, a previously unknown version of hard to unearth untraceable stink, well aware from AU leadership down to the population will not see any of it while it progressed at a snail's pace, and never know what hit them as the evil creeps into every crevice. The arrogant with forceful determination, an air of make believe invincibility, and a cloud of blinding particles to generously sprinkle around the AU confines, could not themselves see anything other than success.

Although told they will not escape with additional crimes against us in the sunset of our existence, and will draw down wrath, it made no difference whatsoever. However, what they never took into consideration, this time no threats were going to deter complete disclosure across continents for the obnoxiousness. They were warned to leave us alone, when we paid to learn how they so hated all things Afrikan before, forcing alien systems and cultures on each new birth; had ample time to retreat from the spree to grab at what is not theirs, by any means necessary and decided to stop at nothing; but we will go to extremes to have them isolated like pariahs for the affront. No matter what else has to be revealed about their deadly, venomous and highly notorious history. No amount of legislative calisthenics can cover up and obscure any of it from the world. They know who they are and what they have done.

No one should have to tell them it is time to back off, it is not their place to interfere in things ancestral, it is a bad idea and will end even worse. The least ancestrally connected and educated, with 11+ slave minds wiped clean, replaced with inapplicable, theoretical rubbish pumped out by the most untrustworthy people found in the Caribbean, are the ones who rushed to the fore, anointing themselves to take charge in what they know nothing about, just because they carry low frequency colonial energies, with papermill degrees, and erroneously thought that alone would suffice to access our ancient realms, but found themselves shut out despite all the bull-like efforts. Which no one except unknowledgeable airheads similarly blighted would want to applaud, egg them on, and thought it a good idea they went in the first place, but sensible people will never endorse such, after knowing what we know. That fateful chase into Afrika by Barbados was a disaster in the making from day one.

Afrika's Knowledge or Lack Thereof

Afrika also has its group of questionable political force who shamelessly never put its Afrikan populations first, so when these types meet each other along with other colluders and fit like a glove, we can surmise they all have the same goals as bonafide puppets only good for manipulating; in their desperation to stay in power, with a weakness for an avalanche of money by selling out people and resources on the cheap. Everyone remains in extreme danger, as they seek massive payments to allow violent atrocities to pour down on the defenseless time and again without end, and when joined by the scourge of the earth, catastrophe is just a breath away.

The plethora of things that have gone horrifically wrong in this diaspora region lately, there was no surprise when a cascading, Karma escorted hell rained down on disloyal politicians. An indication that everyone must pay closer attention, especially on the continent. Safety is now paramount as the bloodletting escalates, since all the grand delusions of the UN Secretary General's chair and UNSC seat, with the highest levels of hoped for immunity have all become undone. With true intent written everywhere for all to read, it is back to the drawing board of schemes minus any world stage props, which are equally unpleasant. There will be no more warnings issued to Barbados so they are free to continue their fast and loose marathon and find out eventually, since everyone has caught on to the dissimulation. They can and will have complete disclosure from all vantage points. It is no longer just one voice in the wilderness.

Buddha - Hong Kong

After all the negative experiences thrown at us over the last hundred years only to have the beastly with distorted personal ambitions push us into regressing three hundred years, by trying to introduce less visible, tighter constraints, with them at the helm. While armed with new age and more advanced diabolical felonies to reign supreme over what they covet, must be seen for what it really is and redirected accordingly. Ancestral energies will never allow a crowd of historical ne'er do wells through legalized violence, criminality, lies and duplicity, further disrespecting our old world spaces to suit malformed designs, while trapped within a timewarped view of life to get away again, it will not happen in this sphere.

Bess - Lion Ntchr of Protection of Children, Youth and Helper of Women in Childbirth

Barriers Taken Down - Protecting Children and Young People From A Life Sentence of Government Imposed Mental Imprisonment and Torture

Lawyers and politicians are renowned for maliciously barring populations from the most basic knowledge and insights into legal frameworks that have violated four generations of human rights. Thinking they are the only ones who should dispense their version of the law, to benefit them only, not clients or the general public, and are known to divert away from common law to the bajan misinterpretation that has no legal basis in precedent: and no one else should dare have the acuity to contribute in balancing out the injustices they consider themselves entitled to push on the society. This has resulted in decades of illegalities against both, since the 1940 creation of the bar association, where such lack of information turned the uninformed into victims, unable to receive equity of any kind, shut out of a justice system they fund, to enrich the lowest form of legally trained political life. Most people know nothing about the 21 Articles making up the UN Charters and Declarations addressing human rights for all, including that of children and young people, the most targeted on the island along with the elderly, and neither government wanted them to find out.

Based on recent reveals, this condition was highlighted and data shared so lawyers and politicians no longer have the upperhand to sentence children and young people to decades of mental imprisonment and mind bending torture because of the illusion they own the island and its populace, and can do whatever they like by profiteering from the law, due to the suppression of legal education they believe is reserved solely for them:

Barriers Taken Down - Protecting Children and Young People From A Life Sentence of Government Imposed Mental Imprisonment and Torture

Fortunately for us, the barriers with massive limitations placed in our path throughout our lives have deconstructed and fallen down, demoting the political harbingers of ill will to the middle of their own game, with nothing to offer but more of the same, and everyone knows all they have left is substandard leadership. However, the condescending nastiness shown to Afrikan populations, and invited by parliaments to upchuck old crimes wrapped in new packages, for those who actually still believe anything politicians say, is alive and well. This still happens because misleaders do not adequately seek to properly edify the people about our Afrikan story, as it does not play into betrayer roles of having the miseducated worship and admire their wickedness to such a degree, people cannot see what the politician is really up to, this is still worrisome. This is the age of truth, and parliament dwellers fail to utter any sentence unless riddled with scorching lies. Future generations can and will ostracize these retrograde gazing nonentities of troglodytes, they have to leave.

We are in no way obligated to consent to any type of enslavement or thefts against our person, just so a gang of moochers, renegades and showoffs can live freely off our lives and that of our offsprings without doing an honest day's work. None of which is sustainable. We owe them nothing and have every reason and right to resist illegal trespasses into our lives by politicians generationally, and rigidly reset everything to our advantage and specifications.
