Caribbean?

By Empress Wuraola Oya

Within the next month we will know the fallout from all the ploys used to falsely advertise in Nigeria. Once Barbados wrestled the spotlight from everyone else claiming they were reconnecting Afrikan ascendants in the Caribbean to ancestral lands, my first response was feeling insulted, demeaned and disrespected; that they would dare open their mouths and call the name Afrika, let alone put elaborate plans in place when they have no rights to do so: then came the revulsion and deep-seated anger in response. Immediately knowing this will end badly, in something life threatening and dangerous for both Afrika and the islands. More alarm bells rang out when Barbados suddenly started glorifying the Arab world and attempting to bully the people into "having respect for and not discriminating against," the descendants of the same group who were the middle-men in selling our Afrikan ancestors to the west.

Disney-Japan

The group was instrumental in the most barbaric enslaving and genociding of our ancestors, thefts of our lands and resources which led to the massive extinction of many important bloodlines on the continent. They still continue those vile human rights violations, crimes against Black humanity, against our Afrikan cousins, on our ancestral lands to this day, stealing resources without fear every chance they get. I knew most people in Barbados were totally unaware of these events, did not know the history of the Arab Slave Trade. The garbage talker also knew this, so it was easy to gauge my reaction to this potential for even greater additional crimes against us directed and perpetrated by a beast. Those are a few of the most revolting small-time politicians/servants who renamed themselves "world bosses," but shamelessly and lavishly living off Black populations for far too long, while harboring lifelong dreams of becoming hidden slave masters for the immense wealth it generates. The opportunity arrived when finally given free access to the Afrikan continent via the parliament and off they went, hot and sweaty to start once they found the like-minded.

We kept saying the reparations scam was a distraction masking true intent, a shroud. No one will put reparations funds to the tune of trillions of dollars in the hands of local politicians with reports of human trafficking, human rights abuses against Afrikan descended people, lodged at the UN, no matter how many hours-long speeches they puke everywhere. Nothing was going to stop them from their mission, not even the public arrest of a Ugandan Judge based at the UN but studying for a doctorate in law at Oxford in the UK; and used diplomatic channels to import a young Ugandan woman as a slave. She was convicted and sentenced for modern day slavery in March of 2025. That was no deterrent for those with their eyes on the UN Secretary General's chair looking for full immunity, a full ride free from prosecution for crimes committed.

In the last few years we realized there was a fraudulent advertising campaign coming out of Nigeria with Nigerians making all sorts of assertions attributable to Barbados about birthing babies, housing, money, doctors, hospitals, no racism on the island, acquiring Barbados passports, freedom to travel to other countries sans visas. Pledges only the lowest form of amoeba would make, which we know are all untrue, but the devisers/deceivers could easily deny any involvement or knowledge in luring innocent women/people with false promises, by covering their tracks in diplomatic speak. One Nigerian female claimed she had already given birth in Barbados, so this trade could have been happening for years.

The imprisonment of the Ugandan Judge gave them no pause, did not register, and nothing was going to deter the Africa-to-the-Caribbean operation. There was/is no reverence for what our ancestors endured so we could survive, no care for what we think and very few listened to the Elders, many no longer with us, in the Rastafarian communities who issued warnings in song, writings and other medium for decades longer than fake leadership have been alive. It is noted Barbados used these eminent people, Marcus Garvey, Bob Marley, other ancestor's, names in the commission of this atrocity with grave disrespect. I can say with utmost conviction, my bloodline runs right though over 40 Afrikan countries in an unbroken lineage, signifying any unborn Afrikan trafficked to Barbados, or anywhere in the Caribbean could be a blood relative.

Was a Human Trafficking Bridge Constructed from Afrika to the Caribbean?

There were instances over the years where Afrikans, particularly Ghanaians, Nigerians and Cameroonians were manipulated before and subjected to horrific experiences, some of it happened in Barbados. Cameroonians are the most recent group we know about in the last few years, where deaths took place in other parts of the region, not knowing the jeopardy to which they submitted themselves. Politicians bedecked in colonial self-importance who view themselves as slave masters with ambitions as such, will always see and treat Black Afrikan people as slaves to be sold and abused. Specifically the mentally lazy and intellectually challenged ones living off the taxpayers who anointed themselves gangs of black "elites:" with "pedigree," whatever that means. Historical weaknesses within the AU is also responsible. The Kalafa slave system still allowed to flourish in the Arab world and directed at Afrikans will be seen in simpler more subtle terms, admired, refined and deployed by the bajan copiers, all they need was lies to make it work:

"Pachamama

May 30, 2026 at 9:34am

What about the gang of politicians she's the leader of?

Is it possible that Mottley will indict herself?

Then there are some who have accused this criminal regime of having close associations with other gangs of criminals.

They have even argued that the political gang has paid what amounts to protection money to other gangs.

"Crappo smoke yuh pipe" if people are still operating under the fiction that a criminal gang of politicians, based entirely on their criminal expertise, could fix all other gangs.

Easier to get the wet out of water!"

Here we are in 2026, and videos out of Nigeria still circulate about Afrikan women birthing babies in Barbados, a whole con game to trap the gullible. Until eventually a flight from Nigeria that was supposed to land in Antigua after many months of preparations and delays was said to have been diverted to Barbados because of an outbreak of Ebola in the Congo, Central Afrikan Republic, amid Antigua's health concerns for its people., or so the Antigua PM said.

New Period Text:

"Come to me Jhuty O letter writer of the Ntchru Make me skillful in your calling Your calling is better than all callings It makes men great He who masters it is found fit to hold office I have seen many whom you have helped: They are among the Thirty (the National Council)."

Which had by the time of this writing also affected Uganda. We knew about the outbreak at least two weeks before the scheduled flight, so why was it not rescheduled was my first reaction. The day before we were given ample warning that "a human trafficking flight," was on its way from Nigeria the very next day:

Kenneth Rijock's Financial Crime Blog

May 23, 2024

For those readers not keeping a close watch on the Caribbean, tomorrow marks the reintroduction of scheduled nonstop airline service between Nigeria and Antigua & Barbuda; the controversial Nigerian carrier AIR PEACE, will commencing May 24, offer twice a month Boeing 777 flights from Murtala Muhammed international Airport in Lagos, arriving at Grantley Adams International Airport in Barbados, and V.C. Bird International Airport in Antigua.

I trust that I have your attention; the last time such nonstop service was operational, in 2022-2023, over 900 passengers arrived from Nigeria, and the flights sparked public outcry, amid valid concerns that individuals were being exploited and illegally funneled into the Caribbean. The Government of Antigua opened 25 investigations into sex trafficking, labour trafficking, and unspecified forms of exploitation. There is a U.S. State Department Report on that case: "2024 Trafficking in Persons Report: Antigua and Barbuda."

Bear in mind, the original story/ruse used by Barbados and others for being in Afrika was to bridge Afrikan ascendants in the Diaspora to our ancestor's lands in Afrika, because of the 530-year forced separation. Nothing was said about trafficking unborn Afrikans off the continent to this region, to end up as slaves or dead at that time, or to be born under the island's slave codes. So try not to lose the thread of what is amazingly occurring, it is easy to get sidetracked.

Was a Human Trafficking Bridge Constructed from Afrika to the Caribbean?

Shortly after the flight landed there was indication about multiple pregnant women on board the plane, a heavily pregnant female was seen on video. This raised people's hackles because of the all round liability involved. Worst still, how dare Barbados or any associate island take it upon themselves to run such an expansive, widespread undertaking knowing the potential risks. While also aware they are watched because of multiple reports of an obsession with human trafficking. The Barbados PM ran the length and breadth of Afrika pretending to be a pan african. Well we know of no real Pan Afrikanists who would ever suborn this grievous offense against our ancestry. It is now apparent the flight could not be rearranged because of due births, or the babies would be born in Nigeria instead, setting off another firestorm of scandals surrounding paying middlemen/women and losing money.

We must ask, does Afrika know they should put legal systems in place to prevent Caribbean slavers/human traffickers in black face within parliaments from exploiting Afrikans. These presidents should know they have to protect the people from scavenging swines, the liars of the earth. Trafficking in unborn Afrikan babies is a brand new low in morals and principles, an almost invisible barbarity, with victims not yet entered our physical world, think about that: investigations must be started forthwith, and arrests made to avoid future recurrences. Since there is a planned twice a month airlift from Afrika. We see, once the talkers got comfortable on the continent and made the requisite connections, we never heard another word about linking Afrikan ascendants in the Caribbean to Afrika, all of that went out the window. Again, the likes of Barbados and Associates have no permission, authorization from us to represent our interests on ancestral lands, never did, never will, especially now. We do not even like them representing us here. So here is where Afrikan Presidents must show statesmanship, ban all those from this region who participated from the African continent, or else seen as enabling. Persona non grata works very well and nullifies diplomatic channels. No unborn Afrikan should ever be trafficked out of Afrika, it carries dire connotations; slavery by any other name.

An Ebola Threat

The flight landed in Barbados on May 24, 2026 with fanfare, hugs, kisses and much joy, happiness. Then people started asking why the nearly 300 passengers were not at least isolated just in case, as a precaution. Since Nigeria borders CAR countries, they put measures in place because of the possibility of a high risk of cross-border infections, Afrikans travel extensively across the continent, so no one knows who went where and we later learned the incubation period for the virus could be anywhere from 2-21 days.

Well, know it all Barbados and their giddy supporters allowed everyone to know that CAR was thousands of miles away from Nigeria, of course not knowing that they share borders and not of the sea variety, all land, never once thought that Afrikans travel all across the other 54 country's land borders for that very reason. So therefore according to them, there was no threat of Ebola from the passengers who landed, This from tiny island brains, tinier minds. Barbados has a facility to isolate suspected Ebola patients but no testing mechanism, no hospital facilities to treat such cases. Same with Jamaica, who, if reports are accurate, but not heard on national news, had a Condor flight out of Uganda with one suspected flu-like case, who was isolated but there are no systems in place to deal with a real Ebola outbreak, just like Barbados.

An Ebola Threat

Uganda is now barring flights because of infections, and have since banned public gatherings in an effort to prevent Ebola spread:

"Strictly avoid physical greetings, including handshakes, hugging, and all forms of unnecessary direct physical contact...." - Uganda

So it appears Barbados knows so much more than these countries who battle Ebola on the regular, although this is a rare strain that is more challenging. I am sure all the wishy washy island misleaders who invited this threat to Caribbean shores are now actively fearing the fallout to the tourism product, that they cared nothing about before when plotting against us in their "trafficking" pact, and doing what they do best now things appear to have gone sideways, hugging denial, trying to distance themselves from the whole cockup that is rolling downhill at pace. I personally hope they all go to prison for human trafficking of the unborn, or they will continue for decades to come, keeping slave societies intact for their aggrandizement:

"Africa CDC says over 1,100 suspected Ebola cases in DR Congo and Uganda
AFP

Sun, May 31 2026 at 12:19 PM AST

More than 1,100 people were suspected of having contracted Ebola in the Democratic Republic of Congo and neighbouring Uganda, the head of the African Union's health agency said on Sunday in a commentary for the Financial Times. Africa Centres for Disease Control and prevention director general Jean Kaseya said there were 263 confirmed cases in both countries as of Saturday, with 43 confirmed deaths."

This is where reality shines through with absolute brilliance. There was never any intention to reconnect us to our ancestor's land, as I said from the very beginning, it was a hoax by the most deceitful politicians who have always blighted our path to anything wholesome, clean or progressive with cursed nastiness, and finally exposed themselves for who they really are: we can only hope Afrika is paying rapt attention and will act accordingly, to heavily curtail and strictly monitor the movements of these wicked politicians and their agents in Afrika. Small minded, tunnel visioned, fraudulent impostors have always been a threat to our existence, and have managed to extend that criminal evil to our ancestral lands in the most vicious manner.
