Mentchu

Mentchu is the falcon-headed Ntchr of war and his main center was from Wast. At Ipet Asut (Karnak), Mentchu is Neb of Wast and his main temple lies north, the great temple of Amen. The Middle Period has a number of rulers who displayed the name of the Ntchr Mentchu like: Mentuhotep ("Mentchu is content")

Mentchu became the embodiment of the conquering vitality of the Kemetik rulers against esfet. Mentu's consorts are the Wast Ntchru Tjenenyet and the solar Ntchrt Raettaway

Diplomatic Immunity does not allow for trafficking in humans or organ harvesting:

Source: ohchr.org

"Geneva 7, 2022

On July 6, the Supreme Court of the United Kingdom, issued a landmark judgement on diplomatic immunity and human trafficking, in the case of:

Basfar v. Wong (2022) UKSC 20. The judgement of the Court, delivered by a majority of 3-2, limits diplomatic immunity involving human trafficking, servitude or other forms of modern slavery."

Neither does it provide for using false pretences to lure the vulnerable and unaware, in this case pregnant Afrikan women/unborn children across the Atlantic using lies and subterfuge. These events showed where the most devious local politicians outwardly seek to compete with, upstage and challenge their masters in the enslavement/trafficking of humans out of Afrika by taking charge of the commercial aspect of things. It is an irony to think they would brazenly and in everyone's face pull another transatlantic arrangement, actually believed this too will last for centuries again, but definitely did not see it being discovered within five years from start.

The concern has always been about a reverse slave trade out of the Caribbean cloaked in another apparatus renamed "reconnecting to Afrika," something that should never be done by black colonial politicians. Where it is unseen by the naked eye, and not detectable until decades, centuries, or millennia later when it is way too late because of the way it was set in motion:

Limits to Diplomatic Immunity - A Precedent

"Traditional and contemporary forms of slavery, including forced labour, debt bondage, serfdom, child slavery, domestic servitude, sexual slavery and slavery-like practices;

Trafficking in persons, especially women and children, for purposes of exploitation, including, but not limited, sexual exploitation, forced labour or services, slavery or practices similar to slavery, servitude or the removal of organs;

Structural and root causes of slavery and trafficking in persons, such as poverty, discrimination, inequality, lack of access to safe, regular pathways to migration, conflict and humanitarian emergencies, climate change, weak labour regulation and impunity;"

How do small state government officials who carry temporary diplomatic franchises pretend to not know what is illegal under the Vienna Convention, but charge straight ahead with such dangerous to the public, crimes, and seemingly unafraid of arrests and convictions, but only fear discovery. Why were they oblivious after traversing the UN environs for years, trying to slither into the UN Secretary General's chair and the UNSC seat, but have no idea what is prohibited under diplomatic guidelines or about the 2022 mandate against human trafficking, a very recent addition four years ago.

We are left to imagine had they succeeded in elevating themselves to near untouchable heights within the UN precincts which gives more freedom for criminality to thrive at unprecedented levels. What else would have occurred and unleashed on the innocent and helpless worldwide using newly acquired attached might, especially in Afrika and Caribbean. That was a very heavy gamble to cover future plans, now uncovered and now with no UN protections or diplomatic either. The audacity in enacting a slave trade where eventually people, children will have to be kidnapped when lies no longer work to tempt victims, as true motives spread across Afrika. However, demand still has to be met since investors will not want to hear about a people shortage. Therefore, even more elaborate methods will have to be used, including raiding communities across Afrika to feed the slavery machinery will become the norm again because of a bajan criminal.

Limits to Diplomatic Immunity - A Precedent

Are we really expected to believe the not knowing scenario when most of them claim to be lawyers, although many stages below exceptional, I find it very difficult to process in the way they expect everyone to accept. It is evident further new age crimes against Black Afrikan humanity are being normalized and formulated so the illegalities are overlooked and everyone remains frozen, incapable of resisting, all of it churned out by black spectres who have taken the lead.

Reliable sources reported that the trafficking in pregnant women mostly from Nigeria to the island was noticed by some and has been happening steadily for the last five years under the guise of obtaining passports and access to larger countries, etc, in exchange for births, since during Covid. It is left to be seen if any of the multitudes of lawyers available throughout the region will interrupt the violations, or sit on their thumbs waiting for an invitation to join in and make millions processing the trading of people/the unborn. Too many attorneys already have track records of working against populations and misusing their legal training, but we shall see.

The general population never knew, but there the talkers and minions were, as usual posturing, that the very first flight from West Afrika landed in Barbados on May 24, 2026, and was inaugural. Another blatant fabrication, highlighting just how deadly lying is in the hands of lawyers and politicians. There was no such flight, it was just more of the same, the previous dry runs were also labeled human trafficking, so attaching an official stamp publicly, after the fact, does not make it any less criminal or illegal: this is all about trading in people and selling to the highest bidder whatever and whoever they can. While distracting everyone with more old talk about oil and gas which can go either way, or nowhere at all, there are no guarantees of success particularly with what is happening in our region and globally, but now trotted out to cover their tracks, although hiding is impossible. Then there are the investors, someone(s) funded this operation and fully expect a return on that investment. Maybe it is time to return their money, it was a high stakes gamble, even with legislation to shut people up and imprison/fine them, but the sellout lost.

Limits to Diplomatic Immunity - A Precedent

It is indisputable the focus is strictly on human cargo, made much easier with planes rather than boats, a much more lucrative endeavour, a better grasp on networks and made easier to dominate the weakest links. With an available wider market for demand, and low risk if no one is monitoring or investigating. While seeking and obtaining financial backing from those who have traded for centuries, and with feeble minds believing anything coming out of the mouths of politicians, do so voluntarily, so cannot gripe about negative outcomes, it is definitely a cakewalk. Except for the fact they are exposed and people on both continents see exactly who they are and what they pretended while dabbling in crimes against humanity. It is not that easy fooling sensible people twice, there is not enough celebrity stardust to sprinkle around to cover up slave trading. Barbados must be very heavily scrutinized for many decades to come for continuity.

We now have to exercise elevated vigilance for new sounding names, similar to the smoke and mirrors used in the fake Sixth Region, now linked to enslavement. Especially with Barbados rushing to head this obscure entity, already tied to accusations of fraud, and thefts from years ago. Therefore we can trust no one coming from the continent, this region or the wider diaspora singing the same songs, while ensnaring us to become re-enslaved. We warned them, we do not need anyone speaking on our behalf, we can verbalize just fine ourselves, better than all of them because of their limitations, ulterior motives: and need no phonies with colonial titles misrepresenting, so stay way and leave us alone, keep their imposture roles to themselves, but there they are still congregating like termites ready to feed. The last people on earth who should ever involve themselves in our Afrikan ancestral spaces is Barbados' parliament or their brainwashed followers/supporters. Once they keep that up, we will keep exposing, since there is no limit to how many skeletons they have waiting to burst out of a half-century old colonial closet.

High Acclaim for Corrupt Politicians v. No Deep Reverence to Ancestors

Confusing is an understatement when observing how people hold politicians to such high esteem, because they carry colonial titles from the same system they complain so bitterly about, this is an unseen contradiction. Which allows pseudo leaders free rein in corruption, thefts from populations, unlimited criminality, pauperization of generations, and across the board stagnation where no progress is ever sufficiently achieved, but in seesawing minds something to admire and show great pride over. The monikers provided by a colonial system that methodically destroyed our ancestors and us by extension, socially, economically, politically and religiously, but these great admirers of their self-ruination hold no such elevation and honor for their ancestors.

With new warnings being issued to beware of a continuation and repeat, we would think people see clearly and recognize the pipeline used to dish out more of the same, but no such luck, they are still mesmerized by incompetence, and display uncaring attitudes about what happens to their future; not even the menaces to families moves them, leaving most unprepared for eventualities with the risk factor of easy compliance a swiftly approaching reality. Since the education required was maliciously withheld by power hungry, fame seeking politicians, trying to outshine everyone until all the stage lights go out, populations were severely deprived and many view this as a proud distinction.

The dazzled miseducated always get caught up in the verbal deliveries of public servants and never pay attention to outcomes from reckless actions. While harboring a re-enslavement and death wish potential cultivated by merciless paid misleaders, but incapable of envisioning who they worship will never rise above puppet status, bring positivity or new energies needed to advance people, societies or islands. Therefore, whole populations are cast adrift with no anchor, safety net or financial stability. In this case, no one should endanger themselves by intervening.

The central point being made, too many real freedom fighters have sacrificed themselves over centuries, gave up lives and freedom in vain, yet a large cross section of mindsets remain the same, embedded in the DNA is contempt for self, disdain for security and disconnect from the important is primary. They should feel embarrassment at these streaming reveals, but I hold no such high hopes and although having access to most information unavailable before, still willingly self-sacrifice at the altar of politicians, so no great loss once self-inflicted.

More conscious minds will instinctively know they have to seek protection for themselves and families against this political fallout, now they can view the entire setup already built around them that seeks to consume and prevail no matter what happens; and can also sense the latest weakened infrastructure, newly built but already crumbling, because it is a cobbled together extension of the original crime scene.

Since colluders have not had the time or skill sets to build a solid foundation, so like the whole system, is still shaky and on sinking sand, and will not take much to bring it to its knees as it remains dysfunctional, and unable to regroup to proceed with the total destruction of Black lives: because politicians need pats on the head and lots of money which still cannot buy integrity, ethics, morals or competency, but all of that is dismissed once they are at the very top of the now toppling social networks.

Ebola Alert

On the current trajectory, it will take the Afrikan continent centuries to catch up, if ever, once still joined at the colonial hip. This was never more glaring when Barbados so easily managed to weasle themselves in with basic maneuvers and spread so much devastation around Afrika for so many years before being caught and exposed. Some officials seem enamored by the same colonial gimmicks that keep the entire continent in a stranglehold which they constantly moan and groan about, but were completely pliable under the same facade introduced by the Caribbean, or we would not be here now. Seeing how easy it was to identify and seek out the anti-Afrikan, anti-people among top officials and use them to kickstart another trade in humans, the decrepitude is conspicuous.

The Afrikan story is no longer hidden, so how is it that some of the least intellectually blessed, the permanently and ancestrally severed from our ancient spaces, those with a deficit in originality. With not an original idea in their heads or a drop of creativity unless stolen, or would not still be plagiarizing Massa's playbook in the 21st century to script a new slave trade out of Afrika. Who reside in parliaments in the Caribbean but managed to reach that far as copiers, using western tactics that the AU also bitterly grumbles about when done by the west, but apparently it is okay to help the lowest common denominator, wannabe slave masters who emerged to enact their lifelong anti-Afrikan goals, and find that acceptable.

Ebola Alert

This shows they all emulate the west despite saying otherwise, and want to carry out the same crimes against Afrikan people, but need the colonial systems and all its protections to proceed, along with reparations they were never going to get, and even less likely now.

The deceptiveness to the local people resonated when they were told, "there is nothing to worry about with Ebola," any lie to hide there are many more Afrikans, thousands, on the island than people knew about, who will naturally travel back and forth between the continent, Barbados, and other islands once they are not restricted. Therefore making travel during an Ebola outbreak hazardous, this dishonesty from Barbados put entire populations at imperilment across the Caribbean:

June 10, 2026

Nigeria

"$8 Mil EBOLA emergency fund allocated by Nigeria's Tinubu for feared CRISIS - The National

'Heightened vigilance' is urged due to recent outbreaks in Uganda and the DRC."

While Barbados' government said the exact opposite to the people, they have suddenly gone silent and said nothing at all since then, hoping it all goes away, but the human trafficking scheme is now public knowledge everywhere. In the meantime, other islands across the region are taking precautions:

Ernesto B. Cooke

It took only one greedy island parliament to stir up all these problems, so desperate to showcase parasitic attributes, everything is in disarray until people can figure out if it is safe or if there will be challenges ahead.
