The Scamming Aimed At Fellow Blacks From The West
By Empress Wuraola Oya

The series of events are so lamentable on all fronts that an Elder had to finally tell his story to expose what should not, but has become acceptable by some Afrikans. A well respected Pan Africanist who tried his best over a 60 year period to educate and unite Afrika and the Americas, never had a bad word to say about continental Afrikans. Unfortunately, was eventually put in an awkward position to warn the west that there are those who may be skin folk, but not necessarily kinfolk residing in Afrika and the Americas, calling themselves our brothers and sisters.

Prof. James Small Admits To Being Scammed Out Of $500K by Afrikans

Tariq Radio
https://youtu.be/iW204sGH4tQ

These accusations have become all too prevalent, where the unscrupulous see Black people in the west as money trees and target them accordingly. When not having the mental wherewithal to gauge that we are basically just like them in losses incurred over too many generations and centuries to count. Thereby completely discounting our history of the same, and in many instances, worse treatment. Therefore should not be targeted by anyone, including governments as a source of income flowing into the continent.

When they made it very clear, it is the only long term interest they possess: and noted after interacting with western descents within the last seven years, there is no plan to give up anything in return. How can anyone justify this one-way only approach? Personally I do not think that having to jump through hoops for colonial citizenship in Afrika as direct descents; where they are still members of the commonwealth, means much of anything. When there is nothing else tangible publicly or privately offered. Particularly since I already have two such documents in the west, and need no more. We can deduct from that we are not seen as central to any ancestral privileges.

The Scamming Aimed At Fellow Blacks From The West

Especially as one Afrikan country benefited tremendously from Black Americans' emotional sentimentality toward their ancestral lands, roots when lured to close proximity. Descents then lived to regret that generosity. It is becoming evident, there are too many agendas in Afrikan minds related to unification that do not ring true, and used as a front. While calling to unite, but somehow see themselves as entitled to talk down to descents, and run every trick to gain an upper hand.

Although we can tell categorically there is a resolve to reduce us to slave status, but this will never happen in any future. The details given by Prof. Small suggests the thieves were planning some kind of ritual take out, after robbing him of his money. Luckily he escaped that grisly crime scene. Hence the threat is real and cannot be understated or overlooked.

We must come to terms with the truth that danger lurks, when not seen as cousins but as quarry to trap and relieve of whatever is available, prey to hunt. With enough agents on payroll to ensnare people who are not vigilant. One would think that mindset had a better intent for us, and focus those thoughts diametrically at age-old invaders and occupiers of our ancestral lands.

Who is still committing the most harm to the continent and people, helped along by leaders who offer no resistance. However, to some, we, not they, are seen as the enemy to rob and destroy by any means. This is causing whoever can see what is happening to go on code in the name of self-protection, preservation from unwarranted, unprovoked objectives wrapped in transparent plots. The below video should be an instant eye-opener, those of us who spent any time living in the US know this very well:

The psychology behind this is decades old, deemed obsolete, and doomed to flop. Since many have passed that road as children and young adults, and moved on to a space that allows the observation of the shenanigans, discrediting and unmasking them to the world. There can be no success when plotters cannot hide from ancient energies hovering and sent to protect us from such immorality.

The Scamming Aimed At Fellow Blacks From The West

Afrikan presidents and kingdoms do not comprehend they are a distinct liability in many different areas of knowledge, compared to what we know, and have to spend decades catching up to what we already saw and experienced, as descendants born and bred in these regions for up to 20 generations.

Therefore, failure is guaranteed where they are in the same predicament as Caricom politicians, theoretically caged in a state of permanent suspension, as preserved relics of the colonial past from which they can never abscond, and incapable of seeing the many quandaries.

Fool me once, shame on you, fool me twice is not going to happen in any incoming millennia. Due to receiving no help from so-called leadership in that regard in the last hundred years. We single handedly developed the quintessential abilities to envision where we are going, after finally, independently learning where we came from, and from whom. Amen Ra

We do have people existing within the wider populace whose brains are also entombed in a calcified bygone time warp and remain compliant, signifying they are all artifacts of political indoctrination that has captured them indefinitely, over the last 75 years. Three generations of scarred consciousness, unable to think for self, function adequately, or break free and permanently set in an immovable place with the approval of politicians' mind-bending, unsavoury rhetoric and sleight of hand.

Who unwittingly, ironically are in the very same dilemma as the people they double-cross, but not everyone is thus handicapped. There are those who will never buy into any such demeaning, self-defeating, unproductive destructiveness.

The big planners on the continent would do well to level up to match who will not tolerate low grade dealings, and instead master something new already linked to the future. The lower vibration we see all the time is delivered by parliaments that unroll at least one scheme a month and have for decades on end to the population's detriment.

The reason they are yet to succeed at anything beyond what is criminal, and warned in the last publication of Kush, this alone does not qualify them to sit at or pull any levers of global power, until a stronger intellectual shield and base is advanced.

The Scamming Aimed At Fellow Blacks From The West

Although most aspire, not everyone can become a Rothschild or Rockefeller based simply and only on being possessed of western schooling, but otherwise entirely devoid of the most important energies bequeathed to some by our revered ancients, and essential to cross certain realms.

The time currently wasted on disparaging descents in the west, which will surely trigger a catastrophic response if the provocations fail to cease; would be much better utilized paving new ways to keep populations on the continent gainfully employed, which means there will be no reason to leave to seek better.

However, we came to learn many are subjected to foreign legal systems, prisons and other life destroying experiences when they make errors and stumble, like recently seen on video where a young Nigerian man was arrested in Thailand, effectively ending any immediate future plans he had for personal growth, progress, or realize his full potential any time soon. Which is likely to turn generational once the cycle is not broken.

We have come to learn there are thousands of such stories coming out of different countries related to Afrikans. It has become imperative to legislate systems to punish instigators of civil wars in Afrika, and will prevent inhabitants having to flee, and stop occupiers from finding new ways to expand, displacing millions while minerals are plundered.

We watched for years where some Afrikan presidents called for populations to have enough social and financial essentials, benefits that will keep them among their people and not having to emigrate. Yet somehow it is still not happening, the drive to do so is not strong enough yet.

Insipidly, the energy to escalate artifices against western descents has taken priority, and will ultimately implode if not halted. As seen happening already, Black Americans will start thoroughly researching what Afrikans do in the US, that is the type of unwanted scrutiny that will be employed, but necessary.

The Scamming Aimed At Fellow Blacks From The West

Black Americans have grabbed the bull by the horns, and indicated to the world they will not tolerate what Afrikans did in their country and are acting to stamp it out. Indelibly ending two decades of a terror campaign built-up and aimed at them for no valid or valuable reason, therefore they are forced to defend the ancestor space.

What was not taken into account by those who launched and immersed in this chaos, descendants in the US do have that power left to them by our enslaved ancestors to fight back. It is worrying that who is shouting the loudest thought otherwise, know nothing about these entitlements and will now pay to digest this after shooting themselves in the foot.

Since they never bothered to investigate and become acquainted with the underlying dynamics of events in the US, but believed themselves all-knowing experts, now proven humiliatingly wrong. We also noticed the same weakness in some older Afrikans who were not around for the Black American experience but pontificate endlessly and deem themselves scintillating, but boring, youtube authorities on our western story. All the while shamelessly spreading misinformation and blatant untruths.

Based on what is currently happening in western countries, including the turbulence caused by Afrikans and others in the US. There is no longer a choice but for the AU and kingdoms to take care of the people with what they have available, start building, just like our ancients. It is also essential they listen to what those who are plugged into the western systems generationally for many centuries have to say.

Including the ones now well aligned with the natural order of things and know how to artistically merge the two. Both are taking time out to lead the way. Despite the mess made by some Afrikans, the least that can be done is pay attention to what is being said to discern something.

All of the above and more also contributed to the immigration crackdown in the US. Since these writings, US prosecutors are carrying out and spreading large scale investigations with a view to initiating arrests across every state. We can deduce that a hunt is on for all the scammers involved.

The Scamming Aimed At Fellow Blacks From The West

Some Afrikans definitely have done themselves no favors in the US. We can state they successfully self-engineered as targets of everyone for removal and freezing out, since the attitude is all wrong, and now present as recklessly perilous.

Which makes it tougher for those Afrikans who do not get involved in anything this calamitous. We are seeing daily the carnage wrought on financial systems in the US with the long cons deployed, relieving institutions of hundreds of millions. Funds that could go to the Black communities. Previously, but even more so now further deprived because of these additional elaborate crimes and their perpetrators.

Dispelling the Myth that Afrikan Kingdoms Did Not Participate In the Slave Trade - Receipts Are Available

The cross-continent and Afrikan land mass network connections remain irrefutable, and collected over many years, this includes available databases, the numbers and names of slavers involved, how many kidnapped, all documented. Therefore, it is mystifying why certain Afrikan countries and kingdoms will now try to distance themselves from a trade from which they cannot hide. We are wondering who is trying to fool whom, or themselves.

Naturally, as these countries have new names given to them by colonizers after the Berlin Conference, it makes them even easier to identify and track. However, make no mistake, we are also in possession of the original names, along with every coast and port used to transport our ancestors.

It is fruitless working overtime to remove kingdoms who did irreparable harm to our progenitors from the list of participants, when it never stopped, is far too cultural, hangs over the continent as a haunting. Some may stop to ponder and make an effort to analyze, why can Afrika not remove itself, colonizers aside, from the desolate, self immolating behavior attributed.

The need to sacrifice Afrikan people and no one else is evocative and sinister. A price must be paid, since no one seems willing to repent for the ancient sins and betrayals that surfaces throughout generations. None of this will go away once the consciousness is not there to address the past and eradicate the associated black-on-black gravest crimes against humanity.

The Real Natives To The Americas - Black People

The best possible reason to educate Caribbean, Black British and Afrikans about the original natives to the Americas and the Caribbean. A unique story no longer concealed and known about by some for over 60 years. All of this again leads right back to withheld education and refusal to accept this is what happened. There is too much evidence available in the form of living lineage to testify. No paid agents with yokes for titles can tell us differently, especially those from the Caribbean who continue to lie incessantly.

Case in point, the Garifuna groups still found in St. Vincent, Belize, Honduras, and self-identify as Garifuna Americans have openly stated their ancestors were on these lands before Columbus or any European, before any kidnappings out of Afrika. They will have to further confirm with genetic testing, but no one can deny they were the original inhabitants of these islands, and could very well be from the Mansa Musa expedition or even from the ones over 20 thousands years before that, who populated the wider Americas.

Some of us can trace bloodlines all along the South America Guyana, Venezuela coastlines. Guyana still has names associated with ancient spaces in Afrika. Where our lines to the classical world are still found. No one is disputing we are also Afrikans, and many other lineages have since combined to produce what we have become. If so inclined some can call themselves, Afrikan Caribbean, European Americans, as we were born in the Americas.

Consideration must be taken, that we have evolved as a people, but separated in many ways. Although still carrying dominant Afrikan blood, we also imbue diverse and substantial amounts of cultures with numerous ethnicities, giving us a unique crossover hybrid standing, extended over time frames, and will have it no other way, given how things turned out after politicians were introduced to the mix.

The greatest political theorist and intellectual C.L.R James, a man before his time, when speaking about politicians in the 1900s, accurately prophesied:

"He argued that liberation could not be reduced to replacing European colonial administrators with African elites; genuine emancipation required democratic participation, economic transformation, and the organized power of ordinary people."

With malicious withholding of our history, no useful education, and secretive wretchedness. The worse calamity to have befallen us post slavery were pretend political leaders, criminal title holders. We will not acquiesce to the nonsense in other people's backwards heads about what personna or identity we should take, which is irrelevant. Who we have become cannot be dismissed, attacked or erased without open warfare, attempting to do so is ineffective and will serve to bring down wrath.

Instead of the attempted psychological beat down to degrade, Afrikans should make an effort to learn more about how everyone in our area ultimately improved things and employ sophistication to some aspects of daily life, after stepping out of the dark, savage ages.

The Real Natives To The Americas - Black People

There is always something to learn. The scattered brain pandemonium created will do nothing to convince us that we are not exceptional, and somehow should see ourselves as lesser than: and only serves to culminate in our heightened creativity, so far unmatched during the rhythm of time.

Our direct lineage to the Kushite, Kemetic spaces remain unsevered within those of us who carry such refined blessings. Colonial servants who are not even remotely knowledgable in such things are not likely to give up any information on the little they do know. Once it means losing little titles and tiny status which they are holding on to for dear life, as they cannot operate, function without either, and know nothing else. Although numerous years were spent trying to cover up that fact.

Source: Foundational Black American History

https://youtu.be/T7cq6RKCajk

The moral of this video is get a life, accept what is unchangeable and relax. How they cannot see the ridiculousness of pouting at Black Americans trying to bully them into something outside of the aged heritage created over centuries, while living amongst them in the US and copying everything they do and say, even the Black American mannerisms are mimicked. These individuals are embarrassed daily with facts on social media, as gluttons for punishment.

Under-scoring there is no depth to the new age Afrikan still significantly limited on information, whose children will grow up to be American and have to adapt to the same energies, traditions. Eventually, after close relationships cultivated socially, will also become the norm, as the second generation Afrikans now in their 20s have already started, and make it known on youtube, they have a problem with outmoded Afrikan customs, because two generations are now assimilated into American society.

There has never been a more useful chance for Afrikan populations home and abroad to loudly demand Afrikan leaders create a better, brighter future for them on the continent. Particularly for children who are at their most vulnerable. We watched for years as Black American children were stalked by death daily in the US. They are not the only ones, this also applies to white, latino and children in general, and not isolated to any one group.

All are targeted in many different ways, in school settings, through domestic violence, random attacks, and myriad other ways. With some decades worse than others, but many lives are lost. The leaders on the continent would do well to prioritize and minimize that threat to Afrikan youth as a first step toward accepting responsibility by building, inventing the much needed opportunities not now available in Afrika. In that way, emigrating will not be the first or only choice.
